

Weather Indications: Fair, Warmer.
CIRCULATION
OF
THE WORLD
OVER
3,000,000 A WEEK.
PRICE ONE CENT.

Nellie Bly and John Jacob Astor.

First Interview for Publication Ever Given
By the Young Man of Millions.

To-morrow's Sunday World

Weather Indications: Fair, Warmer.
NELLIE BLY AND
JOHN JACOB ASTOR.
First Interview for Publication Ever Given
by the Young Man of Millions.
SUNDAY WORLD TO-MORROW.
PRICE ONE CENT.

LAST EDITION. SUICIDAL EPIDEMIC.

Honor Atkinson Futs a Bullet in His Brain.

Two Others Try Poison and One Succeeds.

Edward Quayle Cuts His Throat While Delirious.

Another small suicidal epidemic seems to have struck New York and vicinity. Several attempts at suicide that were not reported by the police this morning.

Christian Atkinson, a tenor in the choir of St. Augustine's Church, 575 Jefferson street, made an attempt to kill himself at his home, 68 Jane street, at an early hour this morning, by shooting himself in the right temple with a 22-caliber revolver.

He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital in a comatose condition, and the physicians say he cannot live. The bullet is imbedded in his brain.

Atkinson is twenty-one years old and well known about the district in which he lived, and was a general favorite. He was an industrious young man and lived with his parents. His father, Charles T. Atkinson, is sexton of the Chapel of the Comforter, at Greenwich and Jane streets.

Christian was an only child, and his parents are distracted over his rash act.

Up to last Tuesday young Atkinson was employed by the Whiting Manufacturing Company. That day he went on his vacation. He has been at his home ever since and seemingly was in the best of health and spirits.

Last night he started out to attend choir rehearsal at St. Augustine's Church. He returned early, and told his mother that he had changed his mind.

About 10 o'clock Mrs. Atkinson went into her son's room. He was sitting on a chair, smoking a cigarette. She reprimanded him for smoking, and he told her to go to bed. She went to her room, and he remained sitting there.

About 7 o'clock this morning she again went to his room, and he was sitting in the same chair, evidently not having retired during the night. By his side was the revolver, and blood was flowing from a wound in his right temple. It was impossible to determine when he had shot himself.

A doctor was summoned, but could do nothing. Atkinson was removed to the hospital, but little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The elder Atkinson could assign no reason for his son's action. He said he was in good health, and was not troubled, and was mixed up in no love affair, so far as he knew.

TOOK LAUDANUM IN VAIN.

Burns Tried to End His Life After a Quarrel with a Brother.

Thomas Burns, a laborer, thirty years old, attempted suicide at his home, 108 Laight street, just after midnight by taking a large dose of laudanum. Burns lived on the top floor of the house with his twin brother.

He drank considerable last night. When he reached home late he had a quarrel with his brother and took the drug. The brother called a policeman, and the suffering man was removed to the Chambers Street Hospital. It is not thought that he will live.

During the forenoon he was arraigned in Tombs Court. He claimed he had been suffering from a toothache. Justice Taintor discharged him.

SLASHED HIS THROAT.

Edward Quayle Kills Himself This Morning with a Razor.

Edward Quayle, thirty-eight years old, of 350 Degraw street, Brooklyn, committed suicide shortly after 3 o'clock this morning by cutting his throat with a razor. He lived with his sister Mary. For several days he has been drinking heavily, and it is supposed that he killed himself while in a fit of delirium.

A few minutes before he killed himself he was heard moving around in the dining-room. His sister, who lives in the house, got out of her bed and rushed into the dining-room, and there found Quayle stretched out upon the floor, with a razor in his hand, and blood oozing from his jugular vein and was unconscious.

Dr. Reagan, of 352 Douglass street, was called in, but Quayle died before he arrived. Coroner Kane was notified.

CAPEWELL A SUICIDE.

Had Been Despondent Since He Shot a Burglar at Gloucester.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., May 12.—Albert Capewell, twenty-four years old, who took rat poison last Tuesday with suicidal intent while at the Rice & Wiers stock farm, died this morning from the effects of the poison.

Capewell deliberately spread the poison on a piece of pie and ate it. After eating the poison he was taken ill, and Dr. McCrosson was called, but could not save his life.

Capewell was given to fits of melancholy. His friends believe this was caused by his having shot a burglar who was in the act of breaking into his house in Gloucester, N. J., some years ago.

The suicide of Thomas Connell in Westchester village a short time ago increased Capewell's melancholy. He talked of it continually. Connell and Capewell were great friends.

Tried to Kill Himself with Gas.

Patrick Connor, twenty-four years old, who said he was a laborer and had no home, was found in a semi-conscious condition in his room at the lodging-house 1110 Third avenue this morning.

He was escaping from two burglars. The man remained unconscious until a policeman arrived, and was taken to Yorkville Police Court, where he was held with attempted suicide. He would give no reason for his act.

DID SHE TRY SUICIDE?

Sensational Theory Regarding the "Drugging" of Mrs. Meyer.

Deputy Sheriff Leonard's Action to Be Thoroughly Investigated.

Police Chief Raitz, of Toledo, Brings a Requisition for Dr. Meyer.

Prosecutor John F. McIntyre characterizes the sensational story about the drugging of Mrs. Meyer with a glass of wine, while she was on the way from the Tombs to the Court-House yesterday, as "rot." He says:

"That story was gotten up by the defense, to distract attention from the fact that neither Dr. Meyer nor his wife was put on the witness stand to deny their connection with the poisoning of Edward Quayle."

"If they are in earnest, let them put Mrs. Meyer on the stand to tell about the drugging of her husband. They will not dare to do it, for they know that it would enable me to lay before the jury the record of the previous pair, with a trail of murders and attempted murders by poison all along the line."

Mrs. Meyer refused to see an "Evening World" reporter today, but Mrs. Susan Schwab, who was taken from the Tombs by Deputy Sheriff Leonard at the same time with Mrs. Meyer, walked with us as far as Centre and Chambers streets, when she left us. Mrs. Meyer, who was escorted by the deputy sheriff, to walk around so she could get the air, I don't know who proposed it, but we went to the street to a place in a basement, where there were tables and other things.

"We each had a glass of claret. I drank mine; so did Mr. Leonard. But Mrs. Meyer drank only one swallow. Then we went across City Hall Park and back again, and entered the Court-House. Mrs. Meyer seemed to be all right then."

An "Evening World" reporter saw Mrs. Meyer at the time and noticed nothing unusual. She was laughing and talking with Mrs. Schwab, who is a dressmaker, and who lives on the street, and is charged with larceny.

Deputy Sheriff Leonard went to Sing Sing with prisoners this morning. He said he knew nothing about it, except that Mrs. Meyer came to me, excited. She said they had been trying to kill her.

"I went over to Mrs. Meyer in the court-room. Her head lolled to one side, and her eyes were closed. She opened them at my request, and they were dilated. She was described by 'Chicago Jack' Gardner, as resembling the negroes and long-haired women, and I gave nitroglycerine to in whiskey."

The idea suggested itself to me that the woman had been drugged, perhaps with nitroglycerine. Her tongue was very dry, and she could hardly articulate, and her mind seemed wandering."

"We know that they have done everything possible to save Mrs. Meyer. She confesses. She has nothing to confess, but we know that they have had her in good health, and was not troubled, and was mixed up in no love affair, so far as he knew."

ESCAPED LYNCHING.

Abram L. Dias Taken Secretly to the New City Jail.

Behind Bars Before the Angry Farmers Knew He Was Captured.

Among the Searchers Was the Lover of the Girl He Assaulted.

NANUET, N. Y., May 12.—Sheriff Dechle, of Rockland County, opened the doors of the new city jail early this morning to Abram L. Dias, who only escaped lynching. It is thought, by failing into the hands of Constable Peckskill while he was being pursued by a mob of angry farmers from Nanuet.

Dias had left Annie Krolach in Nanuet. The young woman's mouth was stuffed full of hay and a large handkerchief had been bound around her head and over her mouth. The girl is employed as a domestic by Mrs. Wiedman, and had been sent to the barn to milk the cows. She remained longer than usual, and Mr. Wiedman, who went in search of her, found her unconscious. He called for Dias, his coachman, but the man did not respond. Then he summoned his wife, who gave a clue to the assailant by telling her husband that the domestic had confided to her that Dias had proposed marriage, and made threats when rejected.

The girl had told her mistress that only a few nights before when the two had driven to Spring Valley together, Dias had pleaded hard to have her consent to be married, and that she had pledged her word to another lover.

With this confession the guilty man Mr. Wiedman sent for Constable Peckskill, who called together a number of men to search for the man. They found him in a field south of the Erie tracks between Nanuet and Spring Valley. Dias was seen by Detective Peckskill, who was accompanied by the Constable, who is over 6 feet high and a crack sprinter.

While preparations for the search were being made Dias was hidden in some shrubbery and heard the plans for his capture, and when he saw his men to secure the man, he fled.

Nyak and Haverstraw Dias started toward Spring Valley. He was seen by Detective Peckskill, who was accompanied by the Constable, who is over 6 feet high and a crack sprinter.

While preparations for the search were being made Dias was hidden in some shrubbery and heard the plans for his capture, and when he saw his men to secure the man, he fled.

Nyak and Haverstraw Dias started toward Spring Valley. He was seen by Detective Peckskill, who was accompanied by the Constable, who is over 6 feet high and a crack sprinter.

SUIT FOR $500,000.

Manhattan Trust Co. and Amos T. French Defendants.

Fraud Alleged in the Pacific Short Line Deal.

Stocks and Bonds Said to Have Been Illegally Hypothecated.

Suit was begun in the United States Circuit Court this morning on behalf of Gordon R. Badgeron and Charles Bruen, of Sioux City, Ia., against the Manhattan Trust Company, of this city, and Amos T. French, an individual and as an executor of the will of his father, Francis O. French, to recover $500,000. It is alleged this sum was fraudulently hypothecated.

Messrs. Donald McLean, Edward R. Gedney and George R. Blanchard are also concerned with the defendants in the action.

This suit, with accompanying charges of fraud, dishonesty and conspiracy to defraud, grows out of the project, partly executed by the defendants, to build a railroad, to be called the Pacific Short line, from Covington, Neb., on the Missouri River, opposite Sioux City, to Salt Lake City, a distance of 80 miles.

Francis O. French, his son, Amos T. French, Donald McLean, E. R. Gedney and George R. Blanchard, to carry out the scheme, formed the Wyoming-Pacific Improvement Company, with a nominal capital of $300,000. The public was invited to subscribe for stock for building the first section of the road from Covington to O'Neill, 129 miles. It was proposed to have a syndicate of capitalists construct the remainder.

The plaintiffs say they were among about fifty persons who subscribed and paid $74,797.50 to build the first section. The Manhattan Trust Company was financial agent for the improvement and railway companies, and all stock issued was delivered to the company, and the voting power controlled by Francis O. French. It is alleged, however, that the stock was sold to the plaintiffs and those who subscribed, and that the construction fund, contributed more than $500,000, for which, they were entitled to receive trust certificates for stock and subscription receipts for bonds, and that the stock was sold to the improvement company and first mortgage bonds of the Railway Company. Certificates of stock to the value of $250,000 were made and delivered.

The hypothecation, the claimants allege, was made in violation of an agreement with them.

All the bonds and stocks hypothecated to the company were sold in 1890, and the sale, it is claimed, was fraudulently concealed and not disclosed till long after the sale.

The first section of the road has been sold under a decree of foreclosure; the improvement company, becoming hopelessly insolvent in 1890, passed into the hands of a receiver, and has since practically ceased to exist.

They ask the court to decree that the first mortgage bonds of the Railway Company, issued on account of the construction of the first section, were subject to a lien on behalf of the subscribers, and that these contributors become owners as equitable assignees.

They also ask the court to set aside the hypothecation of the bonds and stocks, with the alleged fraudulent concealment, and to order the receiver to deliver impossible the performance of the subscription agreement upon the part of the improvement company.

PUGSLEY IN COURT.

Under Sheriff Arraigned for Shooting Schnellbach.

He Says that the Fugitive Committed Suicide.

When the Bullet Is Found the Mystery Will Be Solved.

Constable Howard H. Pugsley, of Peekskill, Westchester County, who is charged with shooting and almost instantly killing Joseph Schnellbach, 109 Avenue C, last night, was arraigned in the custody of Inspector McLaughlin by Police Justice Voorhis in the Yorkville Court this morning.

Pugsley had come from Peekskill to arrest Schnellbach for shooting his sister-in-law, Mrs. Matilda Schilling, in Scarsdale last Tuesday. On the evening of that day Schnellbach called at Mrs. Schilling's house during the absence of her husband.

It is said that Schnellbach was madly in love with Mrs. Schilling, and that he begged her to elope with him. She refused to do so, they say, and thereupon Schnellbach called at her house and was bending over a stove to build a fire.

When struck by the bullet Mrs. Schilling straightened up and wheeled around. Schnellbach fired a second shot, which struck her in the left eye, and she fell. Schnellbach then fled from the house and Mrs. Schilling used what she had to get help. This seems to have been a wise precaution, inasmuch as Schnellbach shortly after returned and tried to force his way into the house. By that time the woman had fainted.

Some time later when the authorities discovered that Schnellbach was still in the house, a warrant was made out, and Pugsley and his deputy, Lynch, came here.

Justice Voorhis countermanded the warrant, and at 10:30 o'clock last night Schnellbach was taken to the County Jail, where he was held incommunicado.

After waiting for awhile concealed behind some trucks, Lynch, Pugsley and Schnellbach started to arrest him. Schnellbach ran. Pugsley followed him, and a moment later two shots were fired, almost simultaneously, and Schnellbach fell to the ground. The wounded man was taken to the Flower Hospital, where he lay for some hours, but he died before Pugsley arrived.

In court this morning Pugsley was represented by Lawyer Emanuel Friend, of Friend & House, of the Pulitzer Building.

Justice Voorhis offered to give bail for the accused man, but Justice Voorhis refused to do so, and the man was held incommunicado.

Pugsley says that Schnellbach shot him, and that he shot him in return. He says that Schnellbach was a dangerous man, and that he was justified in shooting him.

Justice Voorhis remarks that he would sign the order, but he has not yet done so.

VACCINATION KILLED HIM.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury in Charles Smith's Death.

Coroner Creamer held an Inquest last night in the Gates Avenue Police Court.

Charles W. Smith, eleven years old, of 75 Woodbine street.

The verdict was that Smith died of a combination of diseases due to vaccination.

Dr. Alfred Costales, of 439 Evergreen avenue, the family physician, said that the boy died April 19 from articular rheumatism caused by vaccination.

The boy's mother said she was visited by a vaccinator named Willis. She objected to the boy being inoculated, saying that a recent vaccination had not taken.

Willis bared the boy's arm, and said: "I'll give him something this time that will take."

In less than two weeks the boy was dead.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury places the blame on Vaccinator Willis.

BARONESS BLANC'S LATEST.

She Says She Is the Wife of a Chicago Contractor's Son.

CHICAGO, May 12.—The "Baroness Blanc" is now living at the Hotel Normandie, in this city, under the name of Mrs. Emily O'Connell.

The man to whom she claims to be married is a son of Andrew J. O'Connell, the wealthy contractor of this city.

Young O'Connell, who moves in fashionable society, is said to have left the city.

IN ARREARS OF ALIMONY.

Motion to Arrest James Foye for Contempt of Court.

A motion was made before Justice Barrett, of the Supreme Court, this morning, for an order of arrest for James Foye, for failing to pay his wife, Florence M. Foye, the alimony ordered by the Court when she secured a separation.

From Justice Barrett's remarks it would seem that he will sign the order, but he has not yet done so.

TIP II?

FROM SLEEP TO DEATH ALL AT WORK ON TIP. KILLED IN SALUTING.

Sommambulist Hoffmeyer Walked Out of a Six-Story Window.

He Was a Cook and Lived in a Bowery Lodging-House.

A Slight Suspicion that He May Have Committed Suicide.

John Hoffmeyer, forty-five years old, walked out of the sixth story window of the Garfield lodging-house, 5 New Bowery, this morning, and was killed.

Hoffmeyer was a cook in a cheap restaurant in the Bowery. For a year he has occupied a room in the Garfield House, for which he paid 15 cents a night.

Since his childhood the man had been a sleepwalker, and many times he was found in the middle of the night wandering through the hallways of the lodging-house fast asleep. He often said in his night wanderings that he had been killed in his nocturnal wanderings.

At 4 o'clock this morning Lefini Mehl, who lives at 18 Roosevelt street, back of the Garfield House, saw Hoffmeyer standing on the sixth story window sill in his night shirt. The Italian cried to him to go back into his room. The man paid no attention, so Mehl called to a policeman.

When the policeman reached the lodging-house Hoffmeyer was found in the rear courtyard dead. He had fallen from the window and broken his neck. His body was taken to the Oak street station.

George Shields, night clerk of the lodging-house, said that when Hoffmeyer came in about 10 o'clock this morning he left orders not to be called at 10 o'clock, but to be called at 11 o'clock for arising. This incident gives rise to the suspicion that he committed suicide, but no motive for this is shown.

TIP II?

FROM SLEEP TO DEATH ALL AT WORK ON TIP. KILLED IN SALUTING.

Fifteen Taxidermists Are Busy Skinning His Huge Carcass.

Richard Croker and His Son Among the Spectators.

The Ex-Boss Asks If the Lions Were to Get the Flesh.

Fifteen taxidermists under the direction of John Rowley, the taxidermist of the Museum of Natural History, are at work on the dead body of Tip, the huge elephant who was killed with poison yesterday.

The taxidermists began their work as soon as the life was out of Tip's body and kept it up until 1 o'clock this morning. After a few hours' rest they resumed their labors at 5 o'clock.

Taxidermist Rowley says that before the elephant died he had been removed from the bones and the bones and hide taken from the Park for chemical treatment.

The work of the men was somewhat delayed this morning by the non-arrival of Dr. Huntington, who is to remove the viscera, which are to go to the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The hide, which is three-quarters of an inch thick, has been cut away from the upper half of the body. Both right and left legs have been cut off, and almost all the flesh off the ribs at 9:30 o'clock. As soon as Dr. Huntington arrives, the hide will be turned over with a block and tackle and work on the skeleton will begin.

Tip's eyes have already been taken from their sockets, and are to be sent to the College of Physicians and Surgeons. His skin is to be put in pickle, and as soon as it is in proper condition it will be stretched over a frame made of accurate measurements. It will then be set up in the Museum of Natural History.

A gentleman who declined to give his name, called upon Assistant Surg. Burns this morning and said that he unofficially represented the University of Chicago, and desired to obtain the body of Tip. He was told that would be almost impossible without incurring the skinning of the body, which would be a very expensive proposition.

He then requested a portion of the spinal column and some of the nerves. This was promised him and he went away happy.

At 6 o'clock this morning the crowd around the dead elephant was again as large as that of yesterday. Hopes had been stretched, and a squad of police had been kept busy keeping the crowd away.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Richard Croker, accompanied by his son Richard, arrived. Although he has no pass, he had no trouble whatever in gaining admission to the scene.

He was greeted very respectfully by all the attendants and policemen who recognized him.

Walking up to Assistant Surg. Burns, Mr. Croker said: "Look like a regular slaughter here, doesn't it?"

"Yes," said Mr. Burns.

"Why, that's all I had thought of that," said Mr. Croker, smiling, and walked away.

The flesh removed from Tip's bones will be taken to Harlem Island and made into fertilizer. The bones will be sent to the University of Chicago.

Briest Smith, the taxidermist who cut his hand last night when removing Tip's skin, and about whom the doctors were worried, as yet shows no signs of poisoning and is still at work.

TIP II?

FROM SLEEP TO DEATH ALL AT WORK ON TIP. KILLED IN SALUTING.

A British Naval Officer Meets a Terrible Death.

Premature Explosion of a Charge on the Galatea.

(By Associated Press.)
EDINBURGH, May 12.—A terrible accident occurred this morning on board the British armored cruiser Galatea, twelve guns, Capt. Earnest N. Rolfe, C. B., resulting in the death of one officer and the painful wounding of another.

The Galatea, a twin screw cruiser of the first class, of 5,600 tons and 5,500 horse-power, is the Coast Guard ship at Queensferry, on the Firth of Forth, about nine miles from this city. A German squadron arrived this morning at Queensferry and the Galatea fired a salute to the German flag.

After the tenth round had been fired on board the Galatea, an explosion was heard, and Instructor Lawrence's head was blown to pieces and Instructor Whitehead's arm was blown off at the elbow. Two members of the crew were slightly injured.

Pending an investigation into the cause of the disaster, accurate information in regard to the explosion is not obtainable. According to one report, the charge for the gun apparently exploded in the hands of Instructor Lawrence, while he was preparing to place it in the gun. According to another story, the charge was accidentally exploded by being placed too hastily in the gun.

MAKES A NEW DAY'S RECORD.

Lucania Steams 324 Knots to Eastward in 24 Hours.

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, May 12.—The Cunard line steamer Lucania, Capt. McKay, from New York for Liverpool, arrived at Queenstown at 12:58 o'clock this morning. She was 42 minutes behind her best passage of 5 days, 12 hours and 11 minutes, made on the voyage that was completed on March 13 of this year. The average speed made on the present voyage was 22.30 knots per hour.

The steamer was detained at New York 24 hours and 15 minutes by the fog, but her time is figured from 6:30 A. M. May 8, when she cleared the bar at Sandy Hook. The Lucania covered 324 knots on May 9, which beats the best day's run ever made during a passage to the eastward.

LAST EDITION.

RACE TRACKS WIN THE CASE.

Corporation Counsel McDonald Advises Schieren Not to Interfere.

IVES POOL LAW STILL GOOD.

Claims the Decision of the Common Pleas Only Refers to Civil Actions.

BETTING IS NOT LEGALIZED.

But the Penalty Clause, He Considers, Has Been Done Away With by the Legislature.

Corporation Counsel Albert G. McDonald, of Brooklyn, at noon today handed in his opinion to Mayor Schieren regarding Judge Pryor's decision on the Ives Pool law.

It is in favor of the race tracks, and there will be no interference by the Brooklyn police on Handicap day, and probably not after that time.

The opinion is as follows:

"OFFICE OF THE CORPORATION COUNSEL
"BROOKLYN, May 12, 1894.
"Hon. Charles A. Schieren, Mayor of Brooklyn.
"Sir: After careful consideration I have reached the conclusion that it is the duty of the Corporation Counsel to advise you to prevent, upon the race courses or grounds of the incorporated racing organizations, the conduct of the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This conclusion refers only to the limited period of time in each year during which and at the established race tracks or grounds at which, by chapter 479, Laws of 1887, the City of Brooklyn is authorized to conduct races, and is not a general license to the registering of wagers, pool-selling of other acts made penal by sections 321 and 322 of the Penal Code. This